PETROGRAD, July 6.—Important successes for the Russians all along the front were reported today by the war office.

Russian forces opposing the army group of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg have broken through the first line positions of the Germans in the Riga sector.

In the region of Baranovitch the great battle between the Russians and the Germans under Prince Leopold of Bavaria, continues with many prisoners falling into the hands of the Russians.

In Galicia, Mikoulitchin has been captured and on the right bank of the Dniester Austro-German forces opposing the Russians have been put to flight.

Following is the text of the official report:

The enemy has been repulsed and put to flight on the right bank of the Dniester. We now have in our possession a sector comprising a fortified position west of Issakov and Jivatchov. Hundreds of prisoners were taken. We have captured Mikoulitchin.

In sectors on the left flank of our troops on the Riga front we have taken the first line positions of the enemy. We made many prisoners and took numerous machine guns. Counter attacks were thrown back North and southeast of Baranovitch. The battle continues. We have captured 27 officers and 1,000 more men."

PARIS CLAIMS GAINS.

Keeping Acreast of British on the Somme Front.

PARIS, July 6.—The French gains west of Peronne on the Somme river front have been further extended by the capture of a wood north of Hem, it was announced today by the war office.

The communiqué makes it plain that violent fighting was in progress around Hem last night for the Germans, by means of powerful counter assaults, managed to occupy two pieces of woodland in the same district.

Hem, which was captured yesterday by the French, lies south of Curru and about four miles north west of Peronne in the Somme marshes.

The total number of guns captured by the French up to date in the battle of the Somme is now 76, but several hundred rapid-fire pieces have been taken and in addition to these many more were smashed by the bombardment of the French and British guns.

French forces north and south of the Somme, having smashed the first and second lines of the Germans are now hammering away at the third and last line in front of Peronne, which has already been pierced at several points.

North and south of the Ancre the Germans have launched strong attacks against the new positions of the British whose advance by reason of the heavy German forces massed there and the unfavorable nature of the ground, has been slower than that of the French.

German artillery on the Verdun front was very active yesterday and last night.

The text of the official communiqué follows:

"North of the Somme local engagements occurred during the night. A German counter attack took us two small woods located a kilometer north of Hem. A French attack captured another wood on the northeastern outskirts of the same village.

"South of the Somme the night passed quietly on the greater part of the front. A counter attack directed by the Germans at Belloy was easily repulsed.

"The number of guns captured by the French troops that has been possible to count up to today were 76. The machine guns captured number several hundred. The exact count is not yet possible.

"On the two banks of the Meuse front the British have made progress at Thiepval and that the French have captured Belloy-en-Santerre. On the Somme river front, are contained in an official statement issued by the war office today.

It was stated, however, that the British gain at Thiepval was balanced by successful counter attacks by the Germans.

The text of the war office report follows:

"West front—From the coast to the Ancre river the artillery activity has increased but otherwise the situation on that part of the front is unchanged. From the Ancre to the Somme and southwards fighting continues. Minor progress made by the British at Thiepval has been balanced by our counter attacks. Further south they succeeded in obtaining a firm foothold in an advanced trench of a salient.

"We have evacuated the small village of Hem in the Somme valley. The French have captured Belloy-en-Santerre. In the sector of Estres the fighting has come to a standstill. Gas attacks against our positions obtained no result.

"In the Aisne district the enemy tried to attack south of Ville Aux Bois and met with serious losses.

"On the left bank of the Meuse minor fighting resulted favorably for us.

"On the right bank attempts by the enemy to advance in the wood southwest of Vaux were futile. The French tried to retake Damouy work but failed. In fighting in the

CONGRESS SPEEDS BIG PREPAREDNESS MEASURE TO A VOTE

Adjournment to Come Monday if Bill Reaches End in Safety.

Debate Limited on Act Calling For $197,000,000 Expenditure.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Under speeding up orders the house today began consideration of the democratic revenue bill, framed to pay the preparedness bills of the nation.

A drastic special rule limiting debate on the bill is expected to force a vote before adjournment Monday.

The bill, which raises $197,000,000 through increased direct taxation was supported by the entire democratic side of the house and by a group of republicans who declared that they were responsible for aiding to supply the money to pay for preparedness measures which they had supported.

Representative Longworth, of Ohio, Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, Green, of Iowa, and Sloan, of Nebraska, republican members of the ways and means committee, which framed the bill, announced their intention of voting for it, and they are expected to influence.

CAMP WILLIS, O., July 6.—The first squadron of cavalry, Ohio National guard, under command of Major Dudley J. Hard, of Cleveland, was mustered into federal service today. The oath of allegiance to the stars and stripes was administered by Lieutenant L. L. Hunsucker, of the eleventh cavalry, U. S. A.

All four troops, A., under Captain R. C. North, of Cleveland; B., under Captain S. M. Nash, of Columbus; C., under Captain Paul L. Mitchell, of Cincinnati, and D., under Captain George P. Greenhalgh, of Toledo, were marched—sans horseto—the mustering officer together.

Troop D., was augmented to 117 men today by the enlistment of ten Columbus rookies. The cavalry was put through its first severe drill today. It lasted three hours.

The question of paramount interest in the infantry camp today was whether Major H. H. Tebbetts, who has been instructor-inspector of the Ohio national guard for over a year, would accept the lieutenant colonelcy of the first regiment of Cincinnati or the fourth of Columbus.

Colonel B. L. Bargar, of the fourth is anxious that Tebbetts take the place vacated when Adjutant General Hough resigned as second in command to remain as Governor Willis' military secretary. Colonel W. C. Procter, of the first also is cited when he moved up to colonel after Tebbetts to take the place vacated when he moved up to colonel July 4th. Tebbetts would have joined the first without hesitation, his friends said, had he been sure it would be added to the call by President Wilson. Major Tebbetts will decide within a few days, he said.

Major Frank W. Hendley, of the first field hospital, Cincinnati, today received word that Dr. Charles DAYTON, July 6.—Death of Giuseppe Consentino, 24, Italian laborer, at 9 o'clock this morning, has started the police on an investigation of what they believe is part of a duel between rival clans. Consentino was on his way to work at a local foundry last night when two men jumped from a clump of bushes and sent six bullets into his back. Consentino refused to make any statement at the hospital, simply shaking his head when questioned by detectives. Police say they will have the men who did the shooting under arrest within a few hours.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 6.—Fears that the terrific hurricane which for 72 hours swept the Gulf of Mexico and then drove inland over the Alabama and Florida coast had caused a great catastrophe grew hourly here today. Efforts to get into communication with Mobile, Pensacola and other coast towns failed during the early hours of the morning.

Reports received from the outskirts of the hurricane swept district indicated that heavy damage had been done, but gave no information as to whether there had been loss of life.

At some points the gale reached a velocity of more than 100 miles an hour, tearing ships from their anchorage and carrying houses on shore more than a mile.

For many hours there had been intense anxiety over the United States transport Sumner, bringing EL PASO, Texas, July 6.—"Pancho" Villa's wild horsemen today are beating back the Carranzista forces in a running battle between Parral and Jiminez. Minister of War Obregon has ordered General Jacinto Trevino at Chihuahua to rush reinforcements to the battlefield from Chihuahua City.

Long train of Carranzista soldiers are already reported to have arrived at Santa Rosalia, northwest of Jiminez and news of the beginning of a finish fight is expected hourly.

Wire communication south of Juarez was destroyed last night and this added to the anxiety of the Carranza leaders in the city just across the Rio Grande. Mounted couriers brought the last reports.

Villa's latest outbreak comes at a time extremely embarrassing to the Carranza government, as Villa's activity, characteristically does. In official reports the Carranzistas have endeavored to prove to the United States that Villa was dead and that his outlaws were dispersed. Upon this Carranza based his demands for the withdrawal of the punitive expedition.

In his latest communication to Washington General Carranza claimed that his forces had the power to subdue any rebel army that might renew hostilities. He promised this strength to quell new uprisings.

The diplomacy of Carranza has succeeded well. According to the best information General Pershing's expeditionary force was about to return—in fact, has already started the retrograde movement to Columbus. In addition to this, negotiations were opened and well on their way to an agreement for the joint patrol of the border, another Carranza idea.

Then came the news that Villa was at it again. The battle opened at Parral. Carranza official reports placed the strength of Villa at 600, all mounted. This force began to march to Jiminez from San Juan Bautista, where they had had Headquarters.

To meet this force General Ig-

SHREVE, OHIO, COMPANY HAS A RARE DISTINCTION

SHREVE, Ohio, July 6.—Shreve is a town that would bring joy to the military heart of Theodore Roosevelt, for it has sent to Camp Willis as its share of the Mexico-bound Ohio National Guard one full company of 100 men; or one soldier for every 10 of its population.

This is a record probably unequalled elsewhere in the entire United States. Shreve, which is in Wayne county, has a population of 1,016, according to the last federal census. When Company H, of the Eighth regiment, went to the Columbus mobilization camp from here last week it took 68 men who lived inside the village limits, and 32 more from the rural districts nearby, a total of an even 100.

If Cuyahoga county, with its 700,000 population, including the city of Cleveland, would send soldiers in the same ratio, 70,000 men would go from there instead of 1,000 who really have gone.

Company H also has another distinction. Its captain is the best military rifle shot in the world. He is Emmett W. Eddy, and he won his title at Baritz, France, in 1912, as a member of the American team competing there with crack from all the countries on earth.

PALMER DESCRIBES WORK OF BRITISH IN DRIVE ON GERMANS

Men in First Assault Now Resting Up For New Attack.

Prisoners Convey Idea of Rigid Censorship in Berlin Office.

(By Frederick Palmer, Special Correspondent of the I. N. S.)

PRESS HEADQUARTERS WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE,

July 6.—British battalions that have been fighting since the great battle of the Somme opened have now been relieved from the firing line and are resting in billets in quiet villages far behind the scene of the action and free from the sound of shell blasts and the crackling bullets. In answer to the question of what they most wanted when relieved, the universal chorus from the battle-harried troops was:

"Sleep, a wash and a shave."

Every battalion is proud of its record of keeping its formation intact until the first line of German trenches were reached and there is also universal pride that "Kitchener's new army" made good.

One battalion that was swept by machine gun fire lost half of its officers and half of its men before reaching the first line of trenches of the Germans but fought its way on another 1,000 yards to an objective set for it where it entrenched and maintained its position.

Officers of this battalion served out rations consisting of biscuits and half a bottle of soda water to each man, which had been taken from supplies found in the German dugouts. The British, who had lived on their "travel rations" for the first few days of fighting in some instances saved themselves from shortage by use of German rations which had escaped destruction by shell fire. These included canned beef which was found to be very good.

Talks with prisoners generally reveal that the German soldiers have plenty of food while letters from their homes in every part of the German empire indicate privations among the civilian population.

One prisoner when asked what he thought of the naval battle of Jutland, said he had never heard of it.

Another, in speaking of the food situation, said that fresh eggs were prized among the German troops as the height of luxury. A basket had just arrived and the hungry men feasting their eyes upon them when a shell from a British Howitzer made a direct hit and the landscape was spattered with egg far and near. One officer found a box of his favorite brand of cigars in a dugout occupied by a German officer.

Many prisoners ask the same questions that the British soldiers are universally asking, viz., "Has the army enough shells to keep up such a bombardment as that of last week?"

The story of the Ulster division on the first day of the battle is now accessible. One of the most terrible parts was the difficult attacks in the north during the successful movement at the southern end of the line. The trenches were on unfavorable ground, facing a ridge where the German batteries were able to throw a terrific fire. Although there were curtains of shrapnel fire and machine guns to be faced, as well as a heavy fire from machine guns, the Irish troops took the German first line crying "No surrender," and "Remember the Boyne." Then they started for the second line. They were under cross-fire and every kind of shellfire but they continued until they gained a strong redoubt on the summit of the ridge.

There those who had survived dug themselves in against German counter attacks and the machine gun and rifle fire of both sides and there they held on until they had no more bombs or cartridges. Hopelessly shut off from further supplies by the curtains of fire from the German guns they had to fall back to the first line trenches captured from the Germans, taking with them 200 German prisoners. Passing through the curtain of fire the soldiers established themselves in the torn trenches and stuck until help arrived.

There was an English battalion of Yorkshire and Lancashire troops caught in the same fashion, which so far as known, fought almost to the last man in holding the Germans back north of the Ancre, while uniform progress was made to the south.

All reports of prisoners agree that the real center of the attack was to be north of the Ancre. Officers declare that for stubborn heroism there is nothing in the annals of the guards or any other regiments of regulars in the battle of Ypres or the history of the English army that surpasses the gallantry of these Kitchener battalions which kept pressing on towards the objective set for them when half of their number were down. "The world will not refer to the English as slackers after this we hope," said one of the survivors' officers.

Already gaps in the battalions are being filled with drafts and again men of the battered battalions say men of the battered battalions say they hoped the army would continue to press the offensive while the enemy is staggering. There is an irregularity in the losses as some battalions came out of it almost unscathed, while others were badly hammered, but this is characteristic of moderate frontal attacks.

SHOULD SLOAN'S LINIMENT GO ALONG?

Of course it should: For after a strenuous day when your muscles have been exercised to the limit an application of Sloan's Liniment will take the soreness and stiffness away and get you in fine shape for the morrow. You should also use it for a sudden attack of toothache, stiff neck, backache, stings, bites and many accidents that are incidental to a vacation. "We would as soon leave our baggage as go on a vacation or camp out without Sloan's Liniment." Writes one vacationer: "We use it for everything from cramps to toothache." Put a bottle in your bag, be prepared and have no regrets.

Quite a stir has been aroused by the announcement of James L. Jolley and A. Stanley Chenoweth that they are going to establish themselves in the clothing and haberdashery business in the stand formerly occupied by the Jefferson Art Shop, 264 Savings building. All arrangements have been made for the installation of fixtures and what remodeling that will have to be done. It is the declaration of these men that August 1 will see them settled in the most complete and best equipped retail store of this nature in the country. It is a very agreeable surprise for their many friends to know that they have taken this step.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY HURRICANE IN STETES ON GULF

(Continue from page one) many refugees to Tampa from Vera Cruz, but early today a telegram from the ship stated that it had avoided the fury of the hurricane.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 6.—Pensacola, New Orleans, Mobile, Gulfport, Biloxi and Bay St. Louis were still cut off from communication this morning and no details concerning the terrific gulf storm could be learned.

The only news coming through was a report that eleven miles of Louisville and Nashville railroad track had been washed out between Mobile and New Orleans. This could not be confirmed, but was accepted as authentic. Telegraph officials report the Mobile wires down about 90 miles south of Montgomery and a great number of small towns south of Meridian on the New Orleans route cut off.

The water front at Pensacola was washed away in yesterday's hurricane, according to unconfirmed reports trickling in to Atlanta this afternoon. The damage in Pensacola is said to be extensive. No mention was made of loss of life. The high water has begun to recede and wire communication has been restored as far as Flomaton.

LASTED TWO DAYS.

U. S. Cutter Says Storm Covered Entire Gulf of Mexico.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—A radio-gram from the coast guard cutter Itasca at Havana, received by coast guard headquarters here today, said the gulf hurricane had swept around the vessel for two days, July 2 and 3, during the trip to Cuba, tearing considerable canvas but doing no other damage. The report did not estimate the velocity of the wind.

The Itasca was en route from New London, Conn., with 14 cadets of the coast guard training school there, on the school's summer cruise.

NO LOSS OF LIFE.

New Orleans Unable to Find Victims of Gale.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 6.—There has been no loss of life anywhere along the gulf coast as the result of yesterday's terrific storm, as far as known here. The damage to property has been heavy. The railroads suffered severely, numerous washouts occurring south of Montgomery, Ala., and a small wreck being reported near Sparta, Ala.

Telegraph wires in every direction are prostrated, mile upon mile of poles being flattened by the gale, while at times blew at a velocity of more than eighty miles.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 6.—Officials of the Louisville and Nashville railroad refused today to give any information concerning the wreck of the fast Cincinnati-New Orleans train No. 3, in a washout at Sparta, Ala. As far as could be ascertained here, only the engineer and fireman were injured.

INFANT PARALYSIS BECOMING TERROR TO NEW YORK CITY

Epidemic Spreading Rapidly and Heat Adds to the Danger.

More Than 150 Deaths Reported in Total of 756 Cases.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Despite the steps taken by the board of health to curb the epidemic of infantile paralysis now raging in New York the number of cases show a steady increase. During the 24 hours from 9 a. m. Wednesday to 9 a. m. today, 133 new cases were reported by the staff of physicians working to improve the situation.

These cases were in four boroughs of the city as follows:

Brooklyn, 93; Manhattan, 5; Richmond, 33; Queens, 2.

This was an increase of eight over the preceding 24 hours when 125 cases were reported, and an increase of 73 over the total for the 24 hours that began at 9 a. m., Monday.

The steady increase was a deep disappointment to physicians who had hoped that the cool weather which prevailed for the last two days would help them in their fight with the disease. They found themselves confronting a gigantic task today when the temperature began to mount and all indications pointed to a heat wave that would last for several days.

Though $80,000 is available for the war on the epidemic, it is probable that a much larger sum will have to be appropriated. Fifty more hospital doctors, 15 more field doctors and 120 additional nurses are being engaged today.

Thus far the number of cases totals 756 and the deaths more than 150, show that the disease is more virulent than during the epidemic of 1907.

Thorough cleanliness is stated by the health department officials to be the chief requisite in combatting the disease. In effecting this they are having hard work in the foreign sections of the city.

Dr. Charles F. Belduan, head of the bureau of public health education, said today:

"Parents must not become hysterical or give way to fright. If a child is given plenty of fresh air and sunshine and kept amid clean surroundings there is no great danger of contracting the disease."

THE WHIP HAND

Property owners on some of the streets for which contracts for paving were awarded Wednesday by the board of control are suffering under the lash of the "whip hand". On one street the original petition signed by a majority of the frontage requested that brick be used. Now comes one property owner who states that he secured a majority of the frontage to sign for asphalt block, which petition was presented to the director of service. In the contracts awarded Wednesday this street was let for "asphaltic concrete". When questioned about the matter today Mayor Simpson stated that even though there were three-fourths request for any material, "our better judgment must prevail". There is some class to the board of "CONTROL".

THE VALUE OF PARKS

There are a few people who are not enthusiastic for promoting city parks, but the value of these recreation spots in a city is not to be questioned. A visit to either of Lima's "beauty spots" during the heated season will soon convince the most pessimistic that they are institutions worthy of the endorsement of all. No greater endorsement could be found than was evidenced on the Fourth, when thousands upon thousands of Lima citizens were gathered at the Euclid park for the day and evening as well. The natural resources of the park afforded protection to the crowds from the heat, afforded comfort and rest to all while enjoying the beauties of nature together with the entertainment afforded in music and song.

Convenient spots of this character in each section of the city should receive the hearty support of every citizen.

THERE IS PREPAREDNESS

That the United States is unprepared for war is undoubtedly true—but not in the sense that many advocates of preparedness are urging. "It's patriotic" does not consist entirely of stocking up with guns and powder and other munitions of war, or in building plants for the production of ammunition. If the latter were true, the United States, today, is probably as well or better prepared for war than any one of the belligerent nations.

The "Wall Street Journal" in a recent editorial had this to say:

"Not in twenty years could Congressional appropriation give to this country the equipment and munitions preparedness that the Allies are giving during every year of his great war."

"Great Britain has built and paid for our powder factories during the first year of the war. Not in ten years could Congressional appropriations have expanded the Du Pont, and other powder works in this country as they have been expanded during the first two years of war."

"Orders for $300,000,000 in shells and guns put Bethlehem in a twelve month well ahead of Krupp, Russia and her allies are giving rifle works to the United States capable of turning out 1,000,000 guns a month. It is doubtful if any political party could be in continued power in the United States long enough to accomplish this in a generation."

"It is beyond the power of the

What Other Papers Say

THAT AUTO TAG DEAL.

The secretary of state has advertised for bids for furnishing the supply of automobile tags for the year 1917. That's so different from and much better than the way of doing things that cause inconvenience for automobile owners this year. The contract was privately let for this year's tags to a republican state senator, the governor's horse tamer, and he didn't even have plant in which to manufacture the tags, the contract for which was sublet with a profit of $12,000 for the mere getting of it through favor at the state house, favor of a political kind. Auditor of State Donahay, the only democrat on guard at the capitol, couldn't see it that way and got busy, with the result that the state wasn't a party to the arrangement between political friends.—Youngstown Vindicator.

NEW NOTES OF MOVIELAND
 By DAISY DEAN

OCTAVIA HANDWORTH will be remembered by many who were interested in the movies before they were so good as many of them are now. She dropped out of sight several years ago. This was when she left America to appear in pictures and on the stage in Europe.

For several years very few pictures made abroad have been able to compete with those made in America.

Now Miss Handworth is returning. She is cast for important roles in some of the new "chapters" of "Who's Guilty?"

Grand New Plot in "Ostrich Plum." One of the seven wonders of southern California, the Casson ostrich farm, has been used by the David Horsley company for exterior of a two-reel drama named "Ostrich Plum." The title may be changed. At this institution there are more than 500 ostriches. In one scene the beautiful birds of the desert literally kick a "man" to pieces when he is thrown into the lot in which they are kept. In another instance, the heroine, Margaret Gibson, rode one of the large birds to secure help to prevent a riot.

The story pertains to an order received by some manufacturer prescribing a particular shade. The foreman of his dyeing department is unable to secure the tint, and tries to induce an old English dyer to tell him the necessary dyes needed to secure the particular shade. This is refused, and the old English dyer is employed. The foreman causes dissatisfaction among the other employees and they bodily eject the old man. It is at this point that he is cast into the den of the kickers and the daughter rides for help.

All Wrong.

Vivian Martin's writing is picturesque, but not easily read. She wrote a friend from the mountains where she has been making "Neil of Thunder Mountain."

The friend thought she wrote that she had learned to "cock pine cones."

That was wrong. The friend got it right when Minnie Martin wrote

Octavia Handworth.

again explaining that it isn't "pine cones" she learned to cook, but "corn pones."

Paramount releases for July include Peggy Hyland in "By Right of Sex," Hazel Dawn in "Her First Consignment," Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgely in "The Taming of Helen," Dustin Farnum in "Davy Crockett," Blanche Sweet in "The Dupe," Rita Jolivet in "An International Marriage," Marguerite Clark in "The Little Lady Eileen" and Louise Huff in "When Shadows Fall."

Betty Hart, movie beauty, winces whenever she hears the sound of breaking chains. She says it reminds her of breaking hearts, the chief difference of course being that broken hearts can be mended so easily.

MARBLEHEAD.

To come to Marblehead in any way except by sea is to violate the fine fitness of things. The picturesque New England town is a part of the gray Atlantic, and her men are sailors first and last. It is true that of late years a few members of the race of landlubians have penetrated the sacred precincts, chiefly in the guise of "summer boarders", but they are regarded with entire proper contempt by anyone who has the past of Marblehead in mind.

Like Gloucester, Marblehead was one of the great New England fishing ports, and the men who worked the "banks" in little schooners naturally regarded any other branch of sea-faring as rather a relaxation, even if it were privateering or manning a battleship, both of which things they have on occasion done with enthusiasm and success. In the famous naval battle in the War of 1812, between the Guerriere and the Constitution, the American vessel carried so many Marblehead men that the victory was regarded in the town as a triumph for Marblehead first and the nation afterward. As for the privateers, they gathered in their prizes by the dozen.

The descendants of these men are still to be seen on the steep crooked streets, indistinguishable from lesser humanity save for a certain indefinable suggestion of wide waters in their level gaze and deliberate gait. The harbor is still crowded with craft of all sorts, but many, perhaps most of them, are pleasure boats, for Marblehead is the great yachting port nowadays. The visitor has to a certain extent taken the place of the cod and the halibut as a source of local revenue.

Marblehead is almost obtrusively picturesque, and you cannot go many blocks in any direction on a summer day without stumbling on some would-be artist putting some old

HEALTHHINTS

"Shorter" Chilly Disease;

Use Oil to Banish Them

"At least two diseases are carried by certain species of mosquitoes—malaria and yellow fever," says Dr. S. G. Dixon, commissioner of health of Pennsylvania.

"All species are disagreeable pests. Have you unwittingly permitted mosquitoes to breed about your house or grounds?"

"Even one old tomato can half filled by the spring rains makes an ideal breeding ground. It is surprising how many hidden pools one can find around a place if you really go on a hunt."

"Not infrequently drain pipes become clogged. Then the roots house built against the hillside with the slim tip of a mast rearing itself from the hidden water behind on its canvas. The best view is at night though, when a thousand lanterns glow over the harbor, red and green and yellow, casting wavering burnished paths of flame across the water to your tiny boat."

FIRST "PUSH BUTTON."

Benjamin Franklin invented the electric "push button." This was accomplished in 1751. He "shocked" the railing in front of his Philadelphia residence, finding the idea of the street were too fond of gathering under his window. This alarmed them that they no longer gave the philosopher offense.—Ex-charge.

and guitars afford an unexpected breeding place for thousands of mosquitoes.

Communities that suffer from these pests should co-operate to campaign effectively against them.

"Even the smallest adjacent pools should be filled up or ditched and drained. If these are too large to be filled they should be treated with petroleum.

"This floats atop the water and kills the mosquito larvae by abutting off the atmosphere. When the wind causes a movement of the water which breaks up the oil coating, it must be re-oiled. Swamps can be similarly treated.

"A survey should be made of all premises. Rain water barrels should be covered. Tin cans or discarded vessels on rubbish piles should be perforated, smashed flat or buried.

U.S. PLANTS READY TO SUPPLY NATION WITH WAR GOODS

European Demand Has Put Factories in Shape to Speed.

Mexican Trouble Curtails Food Shipments to the Allies Already.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The United States is vastly better prepared today to supply an army of 500,000 men in Mexico than it would have been had the European war not sent enormous orders to this country for just the materials we now need.

The exact opposite is the case to the quite general impression that the pre-occupation of our manufacturers making things for the Allies will prevent their turning out goods for Uncle Sam.

In the last two years American plants have been enlarged to many hundred times their previous capacity for manufacturing munitions. Thousands of workmen have learned new tasks and quantities of machinery to make munitions have been installed. The great orders from the Allies running to many hundreds of millions of dollars, are just beginning to fall off.

It is an easy matter for our manufacturers now to increase their capacity in the slight degree necessary to fill American government orders. The Entente Allies have about 13,000,000 men in the field or 26 times the 500,000 we might require for a war with Mexico.

It is figured here that American demands will only be about 10 percent of the quantity of materials the United States has been supplying to Europe.

Many patriotic firms, too, have all along refused to turn their whole capacity over to the Allies because they insisted on leaving a margin to fill American orders if we should go to war.

If the United States should now commandeer the whole output of American munition factories it would be embarrassed by wealth of material, for it would quickly get ten times as much stuff as it needed.

At the same time, the government may take away from the Allies certain things contracted for here of which there is a great scarcity, such as sulphuric and picric acid. It might also seize, as it has the legal right to do, armored cars, field guns, aeroplanes, and other things standing ready for export in order to save time. In such cases, the foreign governments which had purchased these things would be reimbursed.

In food, too, our Mexican difficulty has already hurt the Allied buyers by creating a jump in price.

HER LEFT SIDE HURT.
Mrs. Laura Beall, Plattsburg, Miss., writes: "Last April I got in bad with my left side; hurt all the time. I had symptoms of Bright's disease. I took Foley Kidney Pills and feel all right now." They quickly relieve backache, rheumatism, aches and pains. Bladder troubles, too, are corrected by this remedy. H. F. Vortkamp.

AGED MAN CRUSHED BY A HEAVY WAGON

Richland Township Farmer Meets Tragic Death on Way to Field.

J J Steiner, 73 years old, was instantly killed at his farm three miles northwest of Bluffton at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. He was caught between the barn and a wagon.

Steiner, with workmen, was on his way to the hay field. He was standing, leaning against the barn, when a team of horses hitched to a wagon nearby became frightened and ran away. He was crushed between the barn and the heavy wagon. The widow, three sons and two daughters are left. A son, Frank, was killed by a stroke of lightning on a load of hay fourteen years ago. Mr. Steiner lived on the college road, having moved there last spring.

BIG PRICE FOR COAL SHIPS AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass., July 6.—Some idea of the tremendous advance in the price of steamships since the beginning of the European war can be seen in the fact that three steamers which cost $900,000 have just been sold here for $2,287,500. William H. Randall & Co. made the sale for the Shawmut Steamship company to the Oriental Navigation company. The vessels, the F. J. Lisman, M. E. Harper and the Penobscot, of 4100 dead weight capacity each, are fitted up for coal cargoes and it is understood that the French government advanced the purchase money.

COMPENSATION

I FOUND WHILE looking over an August magazine the other day the following pointed remarks about compensation that seemed so good and true to me that I am repeating them here for you.
They were written by John Horace Lockwood.Too many people curse God and revile all who are apparently more fortunate than themselves, when their misfortunes are really their own fault. The sooner they find out how they are treating themselves, and who is out of harmony, who lacks balance, and proceed to correct their own faults and put the past behind them, the sooner will they realize the benefit Law of Compensation.Every person comes into the world owing the world a debt of gratitude.You have heard it said that "the world owes us a living," but, as a matter of fact, no one can be normally born without being under obligation to those who have preceded him as well as to Nature herself.The Law of Compensation is so ingrained into the fabric of the Universe, that we cannot escape it.You know many a man finds that the world defers to him in his days of prosperity, and turns from him in the days of his adversity.You hear a person say, "I did thus-and-so for that man, and now that I haven't a dollar in the world, he does not know me."And this might seem to give the lie to the Law of Compensation. Where is the Compensation? What is the recompence?One who did something for some one else, was repaid in the doing; if he did it for that other person, he needs no gratitude. If he did it to win the other's gratitude, as a temporary or perpetual reward, he was gambling; and those who feel that they cannot afford to lose shouldn't gamble.You cannot buy or bargain for gratitude; you may win it sometimes, but to play for gratitude is a game you cannot beat.If your "kind acts" are done for material recompense in kind, better put them immediately on a business basis, with a definite understanding in advance. • • •QUAKER QUIPS.

PERSONALITIES I HAVE MET

D. W. GRIFFITH—PART II.

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

YESTERDAY I told of my first,—which he did afterward at another experience before a moving test—I must not look upon it as a tree, but be so sure of myself in the role I was playing that it would assume the guise of a real human beings, responsive to my caresses.Mr. Griffith had called me for a scene in a little one-reel drama entitled "What Drink Did." It was a story which contained the elements of "Pippa Passes," and I was to play the part of a little ragged girl who went through the world singing to the accompaniment of a mandolin and wakening the latent virtues in cold and hardened hearts.
"All you have to do," Mr. Griffith instructed me, "is to walk through the scene as naturally as you can, your fingers idly strumming the mandolin as you pass by, and in your eyes an expression which must be born of your deep love for humanity."It seems, perhaps, such an easy thing to the outsider, directions like these, but until you have had some experience before the camera, you can never appreciate how difficult it is to be natural. All went well until I came to the part where my fingers were to strum the mandolin—then I faltered and looked straight into the eyes of Mr.
Griffith. Not knowing how to play this musical instrument, I would not have been startled if discordant notes had reached my ears, but the mandolin was silent—it was only a dummy. Just the mechanics of this had thrown me off my guard and I forgot in that moment the role I was playing and concentrated my attention upon this wooden dummy.Mr. Griffith called me out of the scene and explained to me the necessity of entering into the spirit of what I was playing; that if he told me to make love to a wooden post great heights in their big dramatic postures. • • •

Ethel Vetois Ralph's Plan for Making Her a Real Housekeeper.

DO YOU know what I have been thinking of?" Ralph Gordon looked down at the troubled childlike face with its delicate coloring. Ethel was sitting on a stool at his feet with her dimpled chin resting on her clasped hands.

"No, tell me."

"I have been thinking that we will start a private school here, and teach my little girl to be a good housekeeper." The pink rose to the forehead as she asked:

"Who'll be the teacher?"

"I've got that all figured out. I'll ask my mother to come and visit us for a month. We'll send the girl home for a vacation, so she will not be a witness to the lessons and at the end of the month—"

"Indeed you'll not!" Ethel sprang to her feet, her eyes flashing fire. "Your mother never liked me. She tried every way to keep you from marrying me. I'll certainly never let her come here to teach me housekeeping in my own home."

"Ethel, you do not understand mother. She had nothing against you personally. She only realized as we are beginning to do, that a poor man can not get along with a wife who does not know a thing about making a home. She knew what was ahead of us: we did not

M. E. CHURCH WILL HOLD MISSION MEET AT LAKESIDE, OHIO

Many Lima Women Planning to Attend Annual Summer Session.

Lake Erie Resort to Harbor
Delegates During Week of July 30.

Many women of the Methodist churches of Lima and towns nearby are planning to attend the summer school of missions, of the Woman's Home Missionary society, which will be held at Lakeside on Lake Erie, July 30 to August 5. Of particular interest will be the home mission pageant, which will put home missions "into action". This pageant was written by Edith H. Allen, who also wrote the mission text book, "Home Missions in Action". This was studied by hundreds of missionary workers and Methodist women last winter.

The work done by the society all over the country will be graphically portrayed by means of floats and in other ways, and the sight will be inspirational and educational to a degree. The pageant will be held on Wednesday of mission school week.

The purpose of the school is to educate in advanced methods of missionary work; to train mission study leaders, to inspire for larger service through messages from the field; to enlist every woman who believes in Christian patriotism for service in the King's army.

Among the instructors and lecturers at the school are Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff, of Allendale, N. J., who is corresponding secretary of the general organization of the W. H. M. S. The other is Mrs. Celestine Bernheim, of Chicago, the converted Jewess, whose remarkable lecture at the state convention in Lima stirred many hearts and was most unusual in every way. Mrs. Bernheim and her husband are in charge of Marey Center, an industrial mission of the W. H. M. S. in Chicago's ghetto.

Other equally noteworthy teachers at the school will be Mrs. Julius Fischer, of Nelsonville, Ohio; Miss Ruthella Feaster, of Delaware, Ohio, the leader of children's work, and Miss Carrie Barge. The program in detail is to be as follows:

Sunday, 7:30 P. M.—Opening address, Mrs. Celestine Bernheim.

Thursday, 2:30 P. M.—Bible conference platform meeting, W. H. M. S. representative, Miss Carrie Barge.

Friday, 12:00 M.—Young woman's luncheon.

Friday, 4:00 P. M.—Anniversary address, Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff.

Saturday, 3:00 P. M.—Address, "W. H. M. S. and Spanish America", Mrs. E. L. Miller.

Regular daily schedule: 8:30 a. m., children's hour, conducted by Miss Ruthella Feaster. "The Children of the Light house", by Charles L. White, the new junior text-book, will be developed each successive morning by Miss Feaster and the children. The theme is pursued in a most fascinating manner and is illustrated by an unusual fund of stories and letters from children from all sections; 10 a. m., methods hour, conducted by Miss Carrie Barge.

There is no one who can surpass and few who can equal Miss Barge in her intimate knowledge of the needs in local, district or conference organizations. She is a method expert. Miss Barge is so well known and has been so closely affiliated with the school of missions from its beginning that she needs no further introduction, 3:00 p. m., text-book lecture hour, conducted by Mrs. Julius Fischer.

The theme for the united study of missions during 1916-17 is "The Two Americas". The home missions text-book, written by Robert McLean, superintendent of Mexico missions of the Presbyterian board in the southwest, and issued by the council of women for home missions, is entitled "Old Spain in New America".

Edith Thompson is spending the week with Mrs. Noah Rambo. Mary Copeland and J. A. Ingledue and family were Sunday callers at the Noah Rambo home.

Mrs. McCarty, of Harrod, is seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clem Fredrick, here.

Mrs. William Patterson called on Mrs. Noah Rambo Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Ida Fronfrock, of Lima, spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Mary Parker.

Mesdames Charles and Ross Eversole spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Pearl Rambo.

Mary Jane Rambo, a former resident of this place, died at her home in Alger, June 20, 1914. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ashing and was born April 5, 1887, near West Minister.

To this union was born 16 children, 8 having predeceased her in death. Her husband died in 1916. She was 78 years, 3 months and 18 days old. She is buried in the Second M. E. church about 50 years ago and was faithful to her God.

She leaves to mourn W. S. Rambo, of Harrod; Mrs. C. S. Cunningham, Chippewa Lake, Mich.; S. A. Rambo, of Lima; A. H. Rambo, of Bell's Center; T. H. Rambo, of West Newton; Noah Rambo, of Harrod, and Mrs. William Hughes, of Alger.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. McKinney, of Harrod, at the Salem church and burial was in Salem cemetery.

Karl C. Banks, of the Atlantic Refining Co., of Pittsburgh, had a sore on his ankle for a year. He doctored, and tried various remedies, without relief. He says: "San Cura Ointment worked like a charm; reduced the swelling and healed the sore in two weeks."

Miss Helen Thompson of West Market street, was the hostess last evening of a very pretty informal dance given at the Country club in honor of her house guests, Miss Dor-

TERIBLE SORES

COUNCIL MAY TRY TO PATCH UP ROW

Although no definite notice has been secured, it is probable that the city council, will meet in special session not later than Monday evening to consider the semi-annual appropriation ordinance, which failed to pass at the regular session last Monday. The matter was held up by several councilmen who maintain that the ordinance should carry with it a provision for the city's portion of the East Market street subway under the tracks of the D. & W. I. railway. It is probable that an amicable settlement of the differences between the members of council upon a definite future consideration of the subway matter.

It is claimed that the city has some adjustments to make with the railroad company on the matter of delinquent light bills, and that with this matter to be considered, a definite future plan may be agreed upon.

PACIFIC POLICY AND IMMIGRATION UNSOLVED

Two Problems Lie Between United States and the Japanese.

By Frederic J. Hawley.

IX.—UNINVITED GUESTS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—Between Japan and the United States today lie two great unsolved problems. They are the problem of conflicting Pacific policies and the problem of immigration.

We are too prone to regard these questions as settled, as soon as they drop out of sight for a few weeks or a few months. They are as far from being settled today as they ever were. More than that, they are continually adding to their vitality and importance with the passage of time.

Along with the many disadvantages attaching to the centralizing of power in the hands of a small group of men, Japan has derived one compensating benefit from the system. She has gained a consistent foreign policy. Her statesmen have never lost sight of the two great issues that face their empire. They have withdrawn those issues from notice at times, when circumstances seemed unfavorable, but they have never for a moment forgotten them. They never relax their efforts to put Japan in the most favorable position to meet them when the time comes.

These issues will come to the front again, beyond the shadow of a doubt. They are so real and fundamental that they will arise of their own vitality sooner or later; and Japan stands ready to raise them as soon as she thinks the time has come to do so with advantage.

Japan has steadily pursued her two-fold foreign policy. Her objects are the opening of a road to the Occident, and the extension of her power in Asia, with a view to ultimate dominance of the Orient. At the time of the sudden outbreak of the European war, she had been devoting her attention to the matter of emigration. With the war came an unexpectedly perfect opportunity to further her other aim, the domination of China, and she hastily turned to avail herself of it.

Under cover of the world-conflict she extorted concessions from China that she might never have gained otherwise. It is no wonder that she let the emigration question lapse for the moment. To regard that question therefore as settled, to imagine that she has let it lapse for good, would be the height of short-sighted folly. Every sign points to a renewal of the dispute on the part of Japan in the near future.

The immigration question has been so thoroughly discussed that it seems unnecessary to review it. Yet the very richness of the comment and argument poured forth on the matter has contributed largely toward burying the fundamental issue at stake. The mass of the discussion has concerned itself with superficial aspects of the situation, until the real conflict of interest, policy and principle has been almost lost to sight.

Japanese emigration to the Occident so far is only the ripple before the wave. With Japan's population increasing at the rate of almost a million a year, with the spreading of occidental methods of sanitation and occidental ideas of the value of life promising to augment that increase greatly as time passes, it is obvious that the eighty thousand Japanese now in the United States can have no real effect on the problem one way or the other.

In themselves they constitute another problem, but it is a problem separate and distinct. American thought tends to regard the two issues as one. Japanese diplomacy has contributed to the error by focussing attention on the case of the Japanese in America, but it is certain that Japanese statesmen have never confused the problem of what to do with an increase of population of almost a million a year with the question of the status of a few thousand Japanese in California.

The case of the Japanese in California is in itself a real issue in Japan. Japanese national pride is a very real and sensitive thing. The California question itself will arise again. Japan dropped the negotiations over the anti-Asian land bills with the express stipulation of resuming them when she got ready. The gentlemen's agreement, by which Japan voluntarily excludes her laborers from the Pacific coast, and to which she has adhered with exemplary faithfulness, is still a source of continual irritation to many elements in Japan, as a study of the Japanese press will show. The time and study devoted to the California question, the mass of evidence and argument printed concerning it all apply to an important international deadlock. The bulk of it does not apply to the great underlying problem at all.

The question has been discussed with a view to finding a solution which should meet the wishes of both parties. Americans of the Pacific coast have plainly stated their wishes. They do not want a stream of Japanese labor. The Japanese have shown a willingness to meet the American viewpoint on this angle, at least temporarily. They have voluntarily limited their emigration. They demand in return, however, that America should respect their national pride. Thus in looking for a solution of the conflict, investigators have tried to find a scheme which should at once exclude the Japanese without insulting them.

A typical device to this end is the system which would amend all our immigration laws, so that the immigrants admitted would bear some definite proportion to those already here. Under this arrangement, the Word has been received here by relatives of the death of Edward Townsend, 50 years old, former Lima man, at his home in Lindsay, Okla. Death was sudden and was due to typhoid fever. He was ill a little over a week. For the past 12 years he had been located in the southwest.

STREET PAVING CONTRACTS LET FOR NINE JOBS

"Our busy day" was the sign displayed in the offices of the city board of control Wednesday when contracts were awarded for the paving of nine streets. The material specified in the various streets was brick, sheet asphalt and asphaltic concrete, the Andrews Asphalt company being the successful bidder for both grades of asphalt streets, Jameson and Blosser securing two brick streets and the H. L. Solomon company one.

The city building resembled the meeting place of a paving men's convention during the day, there being a total of 75 bids presented for 13 streets. The bids were opened more than a week ago, and the engineer has been busily engaged since in tabulating the bids, while the board has been entertaining lawyers and agents representing the various materials to be considered.

Four of the 13 streets considered were not let Wednesday, but will probably be disposed of today. They are: Elizabeth street, Eureka to Circular; Fifeavenue, St. Johns to Sugar street; Washington street, High to the Pennsylvania railroad; and Prospect avenue, Elm to Kirby street.

The contracts awarded are as follows.

Brick, Charles street, High to Wayne, and Haller street, McDonel to Metcalf; Jameson & Blosser; Franklin avenue, Madison to east end of street, H. L. Solomon & Company.

Asphalt, Lincoln avenue, Elm to Lakewood; Elm street, Cole to Woodlawn; Richie avenue, Charles to Cole, Andrews Asphalt Company; Asphaltic concrete, Charles street, Elm to Lakewood. Hughes avenue, Second street to the C & E railroad; State street, Cole to 200 feet east of Charles, Andrews Asphalt Company.
